BOSTON:

WRIGHT & POTTER, PRINTERS, No. 4 SPRING LANE.

1867.

JOHN BEAL OF HINGHAM.

JOHN BEAL, the progenitor of the large family bearing his name, and dwelling in Hingham, Cohasset, Weymouth and Abington, came from the parish of Hingham in Forehoe Hundred in the county of Norfolk, England, which is situated about fourteen miles west-southwest of Norwich, the shire town, and about ninety-eight north-east of London. He came in the vessel called the Diligent, of which John Martin was master, arriving at Boston on the tenth of August, 1638. Daniel Cushing, one of the early town clerks of Hingham, who also came to New England in the above-named vessel, in a manuscript list of the early settlers of Hingham, which has fortunately been preserved, says of him: "John Beale, shoemaker, with his wife and 5 sons and 3 daughters and 2 servants, came from Old Hingham and settled in New Hingham."

Perhaps the inducement that led Mr. Beal to select Hingham as a place of abode was, that his wife, Nazareth, was daughter of Edmund Hobart, and consequently sister of Rev. Peter Hobart, the first minister of that town, who had chosen that place for his labors a few years previous. The five sons and three daughters of Mr. Beal who were brought over from England were, Martha, Mary, Sarah, John, Nathaniel, Jeremiah, Joshua and Caleb. Two other children, Rebecca and Jacob, were born in America.

Not long after his settlement at Hingham he became a landholder, as may be inferred from the following entry taken from the town's book of grants of land: "Given unto John Beal for a house lot 6 acres of land butting upon the town street northward, and upon the common southward, bounded with the land of Jonas Austin eastward and with the land of Thomas Hobart westward." The site of this home lot can be easily pointed out on the south side of the present South Street (which was the ancient Town Street,) and west of Hersey Street, which was laid out through Mr. Austin's original lot.

On the 13th of March succeeding his arrival, Mr. Beal was admitted to the freedom of the Massachusetts Colony, by taking the customary freeman's oath, which he did at the same time with several of his fellow townsmen; and in 1649, in company with Nicholas Jacob, he represented the town of Hingham in the General Court of the Colony.

His wife Nazareth died on the 23d of September, 1658; and, on the 10th of the following March, he married Mary, the widow of his old friend Nicholas Jacob, who had died on the 5th of June, 1657. By this wife he had no children; and she died on the 15th of May, 1681, as David Hobart, who continued his father's diary, has recorded the event, although the town record states that "Mary Beal wife of John Beal, Senior, died 15 of June, 1681."

Mr. Beal lived to a good old age; for under date of 1 April, 1688, Judge Sewall noted in his diary, "Father Beal of Hingham dies æ 100," and David Hobart wrote under the same date, "My Uncle John Beal died suddenly."

All the sons of Mr. Beal married and had children, as did also all the daughters, except the youngest, Rebecca, who died unmarried.
